FIRST NIGHT, FOUND

Find what you need first.

A small packing system for your next apartment move.

01 Choose your first-night essentials.

Keep the things you need immediately in a bag you carry.

02 Give each box one clear identity.

Use a unique ID, destination room and opening priority.

03 Write down just enough to find it.

Record a few searchable contents, then update changes.

04 Share the plan before moving day.

Give your helper the room names and the first boxes to open.

Example only: K01 / Kitchen / Tonight / kettle, mugs, tea

Print the pages you need; repeat the index and labels as needed.

Write by hand, or copy the included text template into your notes app.

This PDF is printable, not an interactive fillable form.

Letter or A4: choose the matching file and print at actual size.

Your first-night bag

Keep this with you. Adapt the list to your household and journey.

- [ ] Keys and access instructions
- [ ] Phone charger and any essential devices
- [ ] Personal medicines and instructions you already use
- [ ] Toiletries, toilet paper and hand soap
- [ ] Towel, sleepwear and next-day clothes
- [ ] Bedding you can reach without opening every box
- [ ] Drinking water and a simple meal/snack plan
- [ ] Pet or child essentials, if applicable

Three things my household needs immediately:

Who carries this bag? Where will it be at arrival?

Keep sensitive documents and valuables with you, not on exposed labels.
